

God's Blood

In particle physics, preons are point particles, conceived of as sub-components of quarks and leptons, mostly successfully, but yet no direct experimental evidence for lepton and quark compositeness has been found. Preons come in four varieties, plus, anti-plus, zero and anti-zero. W bosons (the 'god' particle) have 6 preons and quarks have only 3.

These are the smallest particles yet known to us of the new, true and perhaps last age of humanity. They combine to form subatomic particles of several names and since this is not a science project, I am not going to name all of them. I'm going for atoms next and then molecules.

Molecules most of us know about. They combine to form everything from rocks, soil, vegetables and all types of foliage, to reptiles and animals, and all the aspects that make up our bodies. Oh, and the chair or pew you are sitting on, the building you are in, the earth, moons, and stars are also made up of a combination of Yup molecules!! And there must be an infinite type of molecules.

Yet, down to the smallest particle, the preon or quark and back up to the molecule they all have one unexplainable thing as to why they work, though scientists know how they or it works because it makes all these particles and molecules work to form things and make those things function, like us, and that is electrical charges, either positive or negative, yet held in perfect balance.

So absolutely everything runs by or on electricity, no matter how small or large, animate, or inanimate.

I'd like to lay claim to the following theory, but it was actually my dad's, Big Al. As we talked theology, we often did, he said to me one day, "You know what Smokey?" (His nickname for me because he wanted me born on July Fourth and I did not come until the Tenth – so I was a fizzer – just smoke – no bang!)

"What Pop?"

"I think electricity is the blood of God. It holds everything together and makes everything work including you and me!"

I replied, "Pop! I think you are right!"

And this morning I thought of all the blood His Only Son shed for us and how all of it seeped out of His Body until only water was left. It ran down the cross and seeped into the ground and being God's blood was endless and as it seeped and spread it renewed the entire earth.

Our home here on the other side of our Real Home, Heaven. Me thinks we should all take much better care of it after that Greatest of Sacrifices.

PS And part of my neurological disorder therapy is neuro feedback therapy and if you ever want to see electricity having at it like crazy you should look at the screen when I am hooked up.
